DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, and 6-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Bowker et al.

Bowker shows the authorization control system for personal use of a device with the specified storage and interface means shown in figures 1, 23, 18, and 20.

Capacitive coupling is suggested in col. 2, lines 3137.

Claims 11, 12, and 15-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Sanchez.

See figure 3 for finger ring, and figure 2 for the storage device 100 as well as the CPU.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 5, 13, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowker et al in view of Sanchez.

Sanchez shows the finger ring as illustrated in figure 3.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to input the personal code with a ring finger in the authorization control system of Bowker because the specific use of a ring finger in an authorization control system is clearly suggested by Sanchez.

With respect to claim 13, Sanchez provides for time registration and storing device, col. 3, lines 44-50.

With respect to claim 14, the recited "car" would not involve patentable invention since a patentee is entitled to all the uses to which his device or circuit may be put. The skilled artisan would recognized that the device of either Bowker or Sanchez may be employed on a car.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Adams and Plesko are cited as of interest in showing related authorization control systems.
